

SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Montgomery Rice issued invitations today for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Leta Burr Rice, to Mr. James William Jones of Temple, Texas. The ceremony will take place September 1 at the First Methodist Episcopal church at 8:30 o'clock.

Miss Gertrude Mulvane will give a luncheon tomorrow at the Country club. Those invited are, Mrs. Will Garvey, Mrs. Carl Trapp, Miss Margaret Garvey, Miss Esther Raach, Miss Helen Sharitz, Miss Gladys Scott, Miss Ella Davis, Miss Effie Bunter, Miss Julia Wellhouse and Miss Mulvane.

This gown of old blue messaline has some very attractive features in line and cut. The panel running the entire length of the garment at the front is not new, of course, but will be ever graceful and becoming. At each side of this on the shoulders the wide bretelles are heavily embroidered in self-tone. The close-fitting sleeve is banded with strips of heavy lace dyed to match the gown. A very becoming touch is given by a little gore inserted over the hip from below which spring two pleats. A chemise of mousseline and fine lace and messaline-covered buttons complete the trimming.

Society Women's Fads—Talk about hunting—Teddy isn't in it. The latest thing now is to go to the woods to do her hunting traps, creep around the house in the wee hours of the morning and start out. Lady Constance Mackenzie Stewart, Richardson, the greatest nimrod in the world, is going to Africa with the determination to kill a gorilla. Now, the rarest and most dangerous wild beast in existence is undoubtedly the gorilla. Lady Constance and her party will proceed to the west coast of Africa, and having reached the mouth of the Congo river, they will travel up the stream by river boats. Her husband objects seriously but to make the best of it, he is going along.

A milder form of amusement has been taken up by some of our American women.

Mrs. Payne Whitney has gone into asparagus raising on the estate near Thomasville, Ga., of Col. Oliver Payne, her husband's uncle. The Whitneys pass several months there each year. Mrs. Whitney saw an opportunity for profit in asparagus, and now has three acres laid out with it. She intends to extend the plot until it covers ten acres, and then will ship to the New York market. This summer she is making shipments to Washington. Mrs. Whitney also cultivates roses and sells them in the capital.

Asparagus raising has also become a hobby of Mrs. George Vanderbilt, who personally superintends work on six acres at Blitmore, the Vanderbilt estate in North Carolina. Mrs. Tillman, wife of the peppery senator, has sold asparagus from five acres this season. She sent a large shipment to a grocer at the White House and Mrs. Taft wrote a note of thanks, saying asparagus was her husband's favorite dish.

Miss Rose Bertram, queen of the tonometrics in New York, is absolute ruler over six thousand foreigners. Spends her time teaching them domestic sciences, judges their quarrels, etc.

In Plainfield, New Jersey, on Willow lake ranch, there's only one cowboy on the place—and he's a woman—Miss Van Ohi. Just at present she is training a savage bull to be as quiet and docile as a lamb.

And so it goes. The life of the plain wife need by no means be a tragedy of failure, though.

Repopulating Chinese Islands. Several centuries ago many of the coast islands were deliberately depopulated, owing to the attacks in turn of Japanese pirates and European freebooters, but in view of the Kientao (Koret) disease and the Prata island difficulty, the Chinese government has begun to see the danger of leaving any place unoccupied, and consequently Chinese merchants are now raising repopulation syndicates.—Westminster Review.
